

Ambush Survival Tactics

This training is designed for uniform patrol officers and uniform specialty units. Officers must be prepared both mentally and physically for any type of violent encounter, including the potential for administering trauma care. This course is a hands on scenario-based course designed in two sections. The first section is designed to educate officers on sound mental and physical tactics to be used when dealing with sudden, unexpected, violent encounters. The second section is designed to train in operational lifesaving/tactical emergency casualty care.

The course focuses on the importance of communication during high stress encounters, keeping focused in the present and maintaining a strong, mental winning attitude.
